

Tierra High Fired Floor Tile

Variation

Slight to moderate variations are expected for all Tierra Terra Cotta Tiles. These will vary in color ranging from natural earth tones of reds and oranges. This color variation depends on the clay and the placement in the kiln at the time of firing. Tile size may vary up to 1/4 in.

PLEASE NOTE: Shades of color are seen differently on computer monitors and therefore requesting a sample before making a final selection or purchase is recommended. Lot variation in size and color may be present from shipment to shipment. There is no guarantee that tiles ordered as add-ons will match those from the original orders.

Variation Levels
V1		Generally Uniform	Tiles are generally uniform and only small color differences can be observed.
V2		Slight Variation	Tiles are similarly colored but include variations in texture or pattern.
V3		Moderate Variation	Tiles show moderate variation. While the color and texture of a single tile may be indicative of all the pieces, the shades and amount of texture will vary from piece to piece. It is recommended that the entire range is viewed and arranged before installation.
V4		Substantial Variation	Tiles are substantially variant meaning that random color and texture differences will be present from piece to piece. Final installation will be unique. Therefore, it is recommended that the entire range is viewed and arranged before installation.